

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Godfrey Dadich Partners Acquires WonderWorks Consulting, Adding New Capabilities and Anna McGrath as Partner, Culture and Transformation

MARCH 8, 2018

Godfrey Dadich Partners, (GDP), a design and strategy firm headquartered in San Francisco, has acquired WonderWorks Consulting, a leadership and organizational development specialist. WonderWorks' founder and president Anna McGrath will join GDP as Partner, Culture and Transformation. In this new role, McGrath will work both internally and externally, offering leadership and organizational development strategies. The division will help companies navigate change, achieve greater agility, and increase their pace of innovation through conscious leadership. McGrath will continue to work with many current WonderWorks clients and will be a new resource for GDP clients and prospects.

"We help companies find their 'why' and then design the systems necessary to achieve their goals. With Anna and her team, we add the ability to coach them to build more responsive, more effective, and ultimately happier organizations," said Patrick Godfrey, founder and co-CEO, GDP. "Anna brings expertise that is good for our clients' business and long-term growth."

"I'm excited to join Godfrey Dadich Partners and support the studio and its clients. For the last 15 years, WonderWorks has helped companies large and small develop the management techniques and leadership capacities necessary to create meaningful businesses," said McGrath. "Today, it's never been more important to cultivate thoughtful, mature corporate leadership. We see companies come apart every day because they lack the tools to create a healthy, dynamic internal culture. I believe GDP's desire and demonstrated commitment to authenticity and transformation differentiates them in the field."

McGrath founded WonderWorks Consulting in 2003. She is a sought-after speaker, author, and pioneer in the field of conscious leadership and is co-founder of Conscious Capitalism Bay Area Chapter, co-founder of Great Work Culture group, and was the first US-based Holacracy Licensee.

ABOUT GODFREY DADICH PARTNERS

Godfrey Dadich Partners is a design firm founded in January 2017 under co-CEOs Patrick Godfrey and Scott Dadich. GDP designs strategies, experiences, and stories, setting a new standard for how inventive organizations inform, interact, and inspire. With a team of more than 60 in San Francisco, New York, and Los Angeles, GDP is a new kind of company, dedicated to finding and telling great stories.